

GYŐR

SZIGETKÖZ AND HANSÁG

WATER AND NATURE

The natural element that shapes and defines Győr and its surroundings is the Danube. Szigetköz, located northwest of Győr, is a magical place often described as the country of a thousand islands. Breaking up into a thousand branches, the Danube has formed a hidden, beautiful archipelago.

Making our way towards Mosonmagyaróvár along the Moson-Danube, through the villages in Szigetköz, we can reach Ásványrár or the Hédervár Castle and its garden. Hédervár is quite certainly home to the oldest tree in Hungary: the Árpád-oak is said to be more than 700 years old. Lipót is home to the region's largest bath, an excellent place for a day-long outing.

Tip for a two-day bicycle and canoe trip (approx. 100 km)

On the first day let's ride to Dunasziget (55 km), visit the Hédervár Castle and have fisherman's soup in Ásványrár. In Dunasziget we can choose from several options for a canoe trip in the afternoon. The next day, we should take a ride across town in Mosonmagyaróvár and have a look at the Nyírkai-Hany as we ride back to Győr along the banks of the Moson-Danube via Lébény.

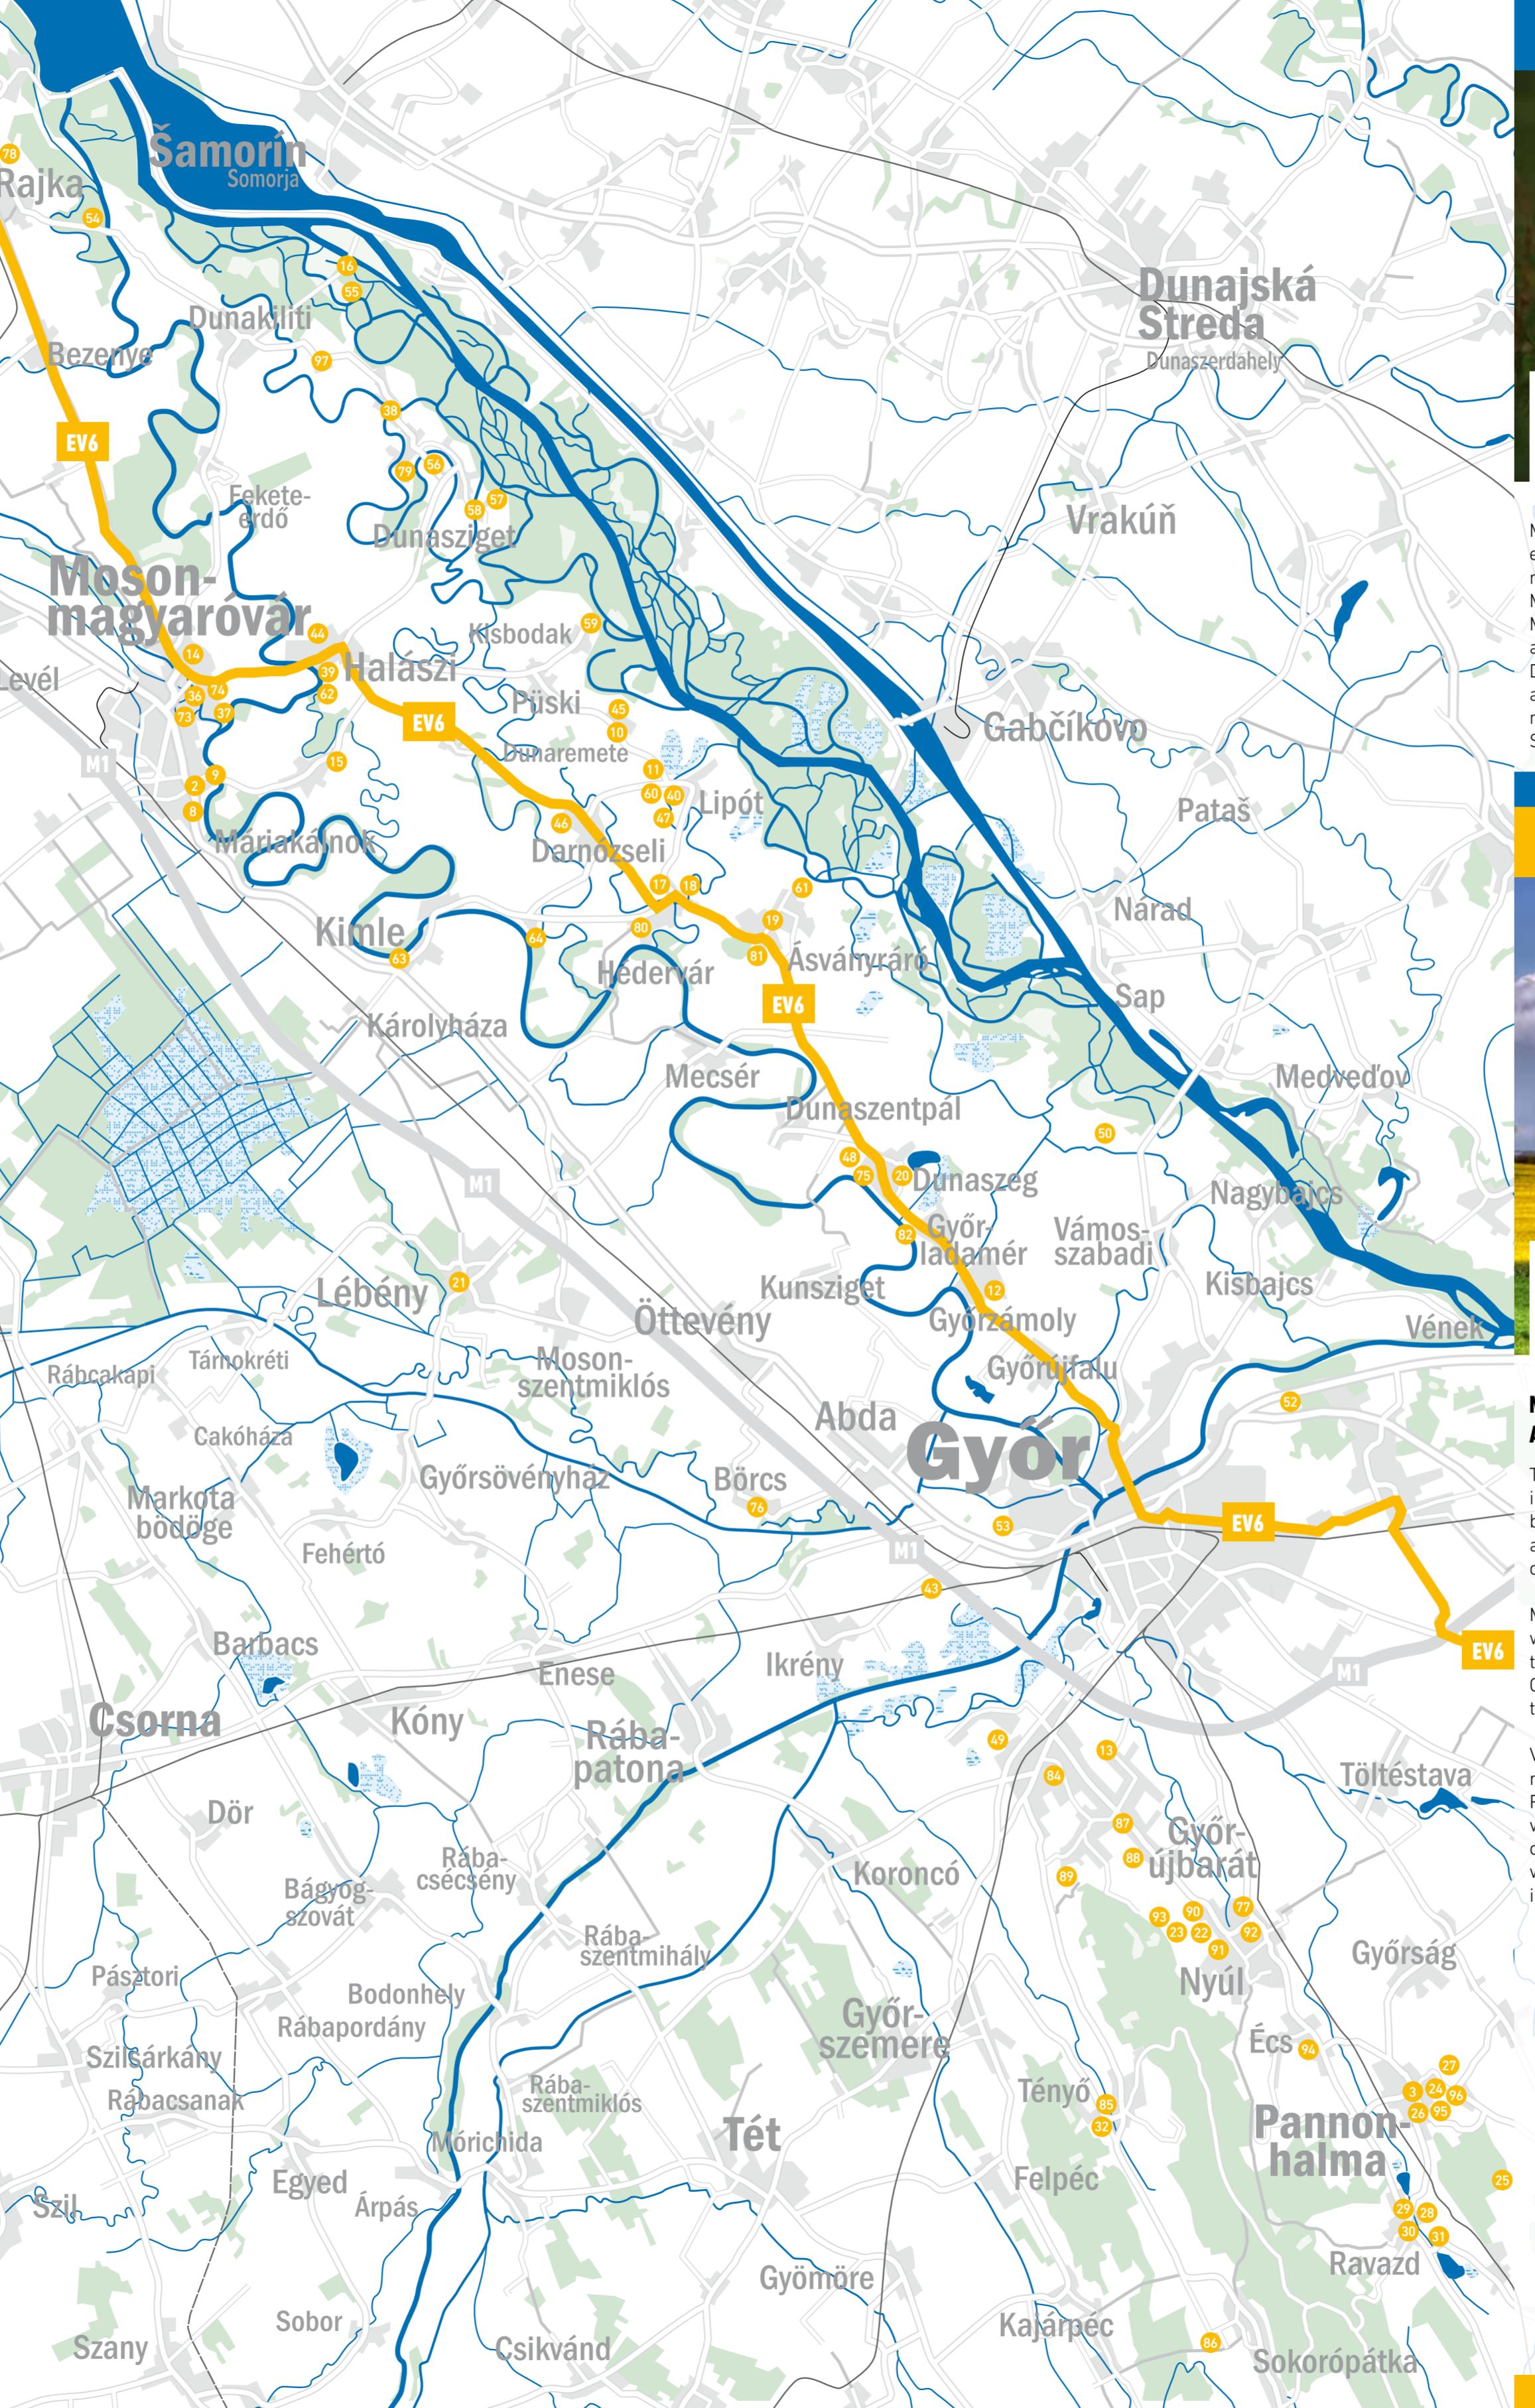

THE BANKS OF RÁBA AND RÁBCA

Making our way southwards, the rivers of Marcal and Rába offer a splendid time for leisure. The Holt-Marcal (backwater of the Marcal) is an ideal fishing site. Making our way to Győr-Gyermót we find Achilles Park, a place for bathing and relaxing. Around five kilometres from the inner city of Győr we reach the lake just outside Ikrény, an ideal place for lovers of water skiing and wakeboarding. Those not interested in water rides are also welcome to swim or just enjoy the lake's beach.

Just outside Börzsöny, along the backwaters of the Rába we can become acquainted with the beauties of nature.

LOWER-SZIGETKÖZ

Making our way northwards, riding on the embankments along the Moson-Danube, the river Danube is within ten kilometre's reach. Midway between Vének, the estuary of the Moson-Danube, and Szögye, we should walk across the embankment to the banks of the Danube before we reach Nagybajcs. After a hearty serving of fisherman's soup, we can make our way back to Győr via Kisbajcs, the Szavai Channel and Bácsa.

PANNONHALMA AND SOKORÓ

NATURE, WINE AND MILLENNIAL HISTORY

The region's most significant attractions include its natural assets – the wine region boasts a number of wineries and inns – and the cultural, architectural heritage of the Archabbey of Pannonhalma.

Making our way southwards, at the city limits we see the farthest extensions of the Bakony, the mountain ranges of Pannonhalma, Ravazd-Csanak and Sokoró, which together constitute the Pannonhalma Wine Region.

Visible even from Győr, on its eastern range the buildings of the Archabbey of Pannonhalma emerge. On the central range we find the region's highest point, the Mount of Saint Paul, or Mount of Nyúl (317 metres), which offers a splendid view over the region, including Győr.

Tip for a day-long bicycle trip (approx. 70 km)

Let's mount our bikes and ride up to the Archabbey of Pannonhalma, roll down to Ravazd and make our way to Tényő via the rolling forest road, approaching Győr through Győrújbarát or Győr-Ménfősanak.

Tip for a half-day bicycle trip (approx. 40 km)

After lunch let's take a ride to the wine cellars in Nyúl, where we should take a stroll up the Mount of Nyúl and take a look around from the lookout point.

GYŐR

A CITY OF ENDLESS EXPERIENCES

One thousand, a magical number not only in Győr, but also the surrounding area. Did you know that Szigetköz was once called the country of a thousand islands? That the millennial history of the Mount of Saint Martin (Pannonhalma) is one of our nation's most significant historical and cultural pillars? Did you know that you can explore all these places by bike from Győr in a day?

This map-based publication lists natural and cultural landmarks and leisure activities in and around Győr so that you can make your weekend a thousand times better. We are certain that Győr and its surrounding area can offer families, groups of friends and even lone travellers a perfect place to relax. We hope that by visiting tourist attractions outside the town by bicycle, canoe or even on foot, visitors gain experiences that will stay with them for the rest of their lives.
